Crystals and Gems

GWENDOLYN PLUMMER / ASSOCIATE EDITOR

WHO: For those who carry crystals in their bag to ward off bad energy, for those who lust over the Crown Jewels, and those who just love a precious pop of color.

WHAT: Translucent acetate frames in gem and crystal tones that are just as precious as they are trendy.

WEAR: (Top to Bottom): From Thélios, Kenzo style KZ40100U brings a translucent sapphire shade to a high-fashion shape, blending trends and tradition. From Ørgreen, Cornelia offers a translucent blush reminiscent of morganite, creating a shade that is both precious and intriguing. From STATE Optical, Magnolia's tortoiseshell topaz brings an unexpected update to a traditional gem shade. Finally, from Moscot, Golda in Burnt Rose is a delicate rose gold that demands a second look.

WHY: When combined with a translucent acetate that truly lets these colors shine, crystal and gem tones offer an exciting but adaptable pop of color, creating a trend that anyone can work with.

gplummer@jobson.com

PHOTO CREDIT: IMAGES COURTESY OF THELIOS, ORGREEN, STATE, AND MOSCOT

Cailee in Red

TRINA TURK

SHOP THE LATEST FALL RELEASES

855.550.2694 | MCGEEGROUP.COM

The McGee Group®