A 'Very Peri' New Year

GWENDOLYN PLUMMER / SENIOR ASSOCIATE EDITOR

WHO: For the trendy, the optimistic and the bold.

WHAT: Frames that showcase Very Peri, Pantone's color of the year, which combines an on-trend, optimistic shade with styles for everyone.

WEAR: (Top to Bottom) From Lunor's A5 collection, style 215 55 in the brand's "Black-berry" shade is a soft, transparent take on Very Peri. The frame's classic shape combined with a slight, unexpected angular twist on the inner corners perfectly walks the line between timeless and trendy. From Marchon's Salvatore Ferragamo, style SF289S in "Lilac" extends the Very Peri shade from frame to lens, creating a bold, immersive take on the trend—and truly allowing the wearer to see the world through lilac colored glasses. Modo Eyewear style 4106 from the Paper-Thin collection combines two Very Peri-inspired shades on one eye-catching, angular frame that feels both cutting-edge and vibrantly cool. Finally, from Safilo's Missoni, style MIS 0092 shows off the chicest peek of Very Peri on the frame front, creating a unique, and more subtle, way to join in on the trend.

WHY: The Pantone Color Institute described Very Peri as "carefree," "confident," and "creative"—adjectives we can channel and champion as we head into 2022, both in our lives and in our eyewear.
