EnChroma Color Accessibility Program™

EnChroma is the leading advocate for accessibility for those with color blindness. Nearly 200 public institutions — including over 100 museums libraries, schools, universities, national parks, gardens, employers and tourism bureaus — participate to help color blind visitors or students more fully experience colors in art, nature, and overcome obstacles to learning. Participating organizations include the Georgia O’Keeffe Museum, The Centre Pompidou, Van Gogh Museum, Dallas Museum of Art, Boston University, North Carolina State University, and many others. EnChroma donates a pair of glasses for every pair an organization purchases.
